Celebrating the summer term of life drawing classes

The third summer term of life drawing classes, taught by our professional tutor Kathy Barker, has just come to an end.

Life drawing classes take place every Wednesday morning during term time, from 10am to 1pm, with the autumn term of ten classes starting again in the week of the 21st September.

We are planning to hold each class, with a live model, subject to government social distancing rules, in the art studio and at the same time live on zoom. Students can then choose how they join.

Here are some of the students' favourite paintings from the three summer terms:

Life drawing classes are always very popular; they include new artists, improvers and the more experienced!

We will provide more details on how to join at the end of the summer.

Autumn art lectures

The dates and times to include in your diaries are 8pm on:

We are planning to hold each of these lectures, subject to government social distancing rules, in the Fountain Room and, at the same time, broadcast live on zoom. You will be able to choose how to wish to join.
