Bob Vokey - Wedge Master Craftsman

'Think of most amateur golfers. They only hit 6 -8 greens in a round, if they are having a good day. So, on the majority of holes, you are going to be using a wedge. And wedges are required to hit so many different shots - bunker shots, fairway shots, lob shots, little pitches. Wedges need to be versatile, and every player is different. It's never one size fits all for wedges. That's why we have so many options'.

Why get your wedges fitted?

Getting your wedges fitted is so important – they are your scoring clubs and play a huge role in lowering your scores. We custom fit to your individual technique, preferences and set make-up regarding:

- *Grind
- *Bounce
- *Loft gapping - using trackman in the performance studio
- *Length and lie
- *Shaft - steel or graphite
- *Grip size and compound

Grind and Bounce

Selecting the correct grind and bounce is dependent on a player's swing type and course conditions. Most players are one of three types:

- Slider/sweeper - shallow angle of attack (brush divots) = Low to medium bounce
- Neutral - neutral angle of attack (small to no divot) = Medium bounce
- Driver/digger - steep angle of attack (large divots) = Medium/high bounce

Take a look below at the different grinds and bounces available within the Titleist Vokey SM8 wedge line-up and we can help find what suits you best.

F Grind

All Purpose Grind for Full Wedge Shots

The F grind is an all-purpose grind that is particularly suited for full shots and shots hit with a square face. Ideal for players who prefer a traditional wedge sole.

M Grind

Multi-purpose grind for versatility

The M Grind, Vokey's favourite, is designed for players that like to rotate the club face open and closed to manufacture shots around the green. Ideal for players with a shallower, more sweeping swing type who play shots from a variety of clubface positions.

S Grind

Narrow & Versatile

The S Grind features a full sole that has been narrowed by a trailing edge grind, giving it a faster feel through the turf. This grind is best for neutral to firm conditions and for players that like to control loft with their hands ahead or behind the ball.

D Grind

The Player's High Bounce Wedge

The D grind blends versatility from a heel, toe, and trailing edge grind and forgiveness with its high measured bounce. The D Grind is ideal for players with a steeper angle of attack who play shots from a variety of clubface positions.

L Grind

Precision for Skilled Shotmakers

The L Grind is the lowest bounce option in the mix. The heel, toe, and trailing edge relief allow for maximum greenside versatility. This club is perfect for firm conditions and designed for precise players. It is ideal for players that have complete control of impact looking for maximum shot-making versatility.

K Grind

The Ultimate Bunker Club

The K Grind is the highest bounce wedge in the lineup, and is the ultimate bunker club. The K Grind is a wide, full sole wedge with enhanced camber to make it forgiving from a variety of sand and turf conditions.

Loft Gapping – Selecting the right wedges

Modern day pitching wedges can now be as low lofted as 43 degrees, therefore if your next club is your sand wedge at 56 degrees there could be up to a 25/30-yard distance gap between your wedges.

Two thirds of all golf shots are from 125 yards or less, making consistent wedge play a key to lower scores. Vokey recommends 4-6° of loft between your wedges which will lead to distance gaps of 12-15 yards. Most players will benefit from carrying four wedges, which leads to tighter yardage gaps and more full shots.

RECOMMENDED WEDGE SET COMPOSITIONS

PW (44°)	W48	52°	58°
PW (45° - 46°)	50°	54°	58°
PW (45° - 46°)	52°	58°
PW (47° - 48°)	52°	56°	60°
PW (47° - 48°)	54°	60°

WEDGE REPLACEMENT
All grooves wear out over time. Vokey recommends you replace your wedges every 60-70 rounds, more often if you practice frequently out of bunkers.

12-15 yds.
Vokey recommends consistent yardage gaps between wedges.

When custom fitting we recommend 4-6 degrees of loft separation between your wedges resulting in 10-15 yardage gaps between clubs. Most players will benefit from carrying four wedges which will enable you to play more full swing shots into the greens, which when approximately 60/65% of shots are taken within 100 yards of the green it is crucial to ensure you have enough clubs to cover the different distances.
