

CREATIVE SMARTPHONE PHOTOGRAPHY CLASS

Monday 19th May 7.30pm

Demonstration with Jocelyn Horsfall ARPS and Amanda Day LRPS.

Learn how to make images with your mobile phone that are creative, expressive and artistic, going beyond the basic capture of scenes to produce beautiful and intriguing works of art.

These days, there are many apps that are easy and fun (and free / cheap) to use to be more creative at both the shooting stage as well as for processing your images. Jocelyn and Amanda will cover a selection of apps for both shooting and processing in a 'live' demonstration format, with the phone projected onto a screen so you can follow along. A list of the apps that will be covered will be provided in advance to those who sign up, so you can choose to download ready to have a play if you want.

Two main creative effects possible when taking photos with apps are Intentional Camera Movement (ICM) and Multiple Exposure (ME), and these will be covered in the demonstration. Also included will be some of the many effects that can be added in processing, including textures, art styles, distortions and colour adjustments, as well as straightforward editing.

Join and see how you can take your mobile phone photography to a new level. Whether you usually take people, landscapes, flowers, street photography, learn how to make images you never imagined possible with your smartphone!

Note: This presentation is primarily geared toward iPhone users; however, you can certainly participate if you own an Android phone. Some of the apps are available for both types, for others equivalent apps will be suggested. There will be a handout sheet including the names (and icons) of any apps mentioned, plus others to try.
